

NOTETAKING STRATEGIES

THE ULTIMATE GUIDE

When you are engaging with material in your class or you are participating in a LiveLesson, taking notes is important. Good notes can help you master the material. This list has different note-taking templates and tips you can use. Try them out. See which ones work best for you.

KWLH Organizer

This chart helps you track what you know (K), want to know (W), has learned (L), and what more could be learned (H).

Cornell Notes

This note sheet organizes a list of main ideas. Then, you add support for the main ideas with evidence and details.

Framer Model

This organizer is great for vocabulary study. It will help you learn new words.

Draw and Write

This template combines drawing and writing. When you are learning a new concept, it can help to draw it out.

Power Notes

These notes help you narrow in on the main idea. You then support that idea with details.

Venn Diagram

This chart helps you compare and contrast two things. You can use this to study objects, people, events, or concepts.

Making Connections

This organizer helps you make personal connections to a text. Connections are made to yourself, to other texts, and to the world.

Double Journal

This template helps you note ideas in the column on the left. On the right, you add your reactions.

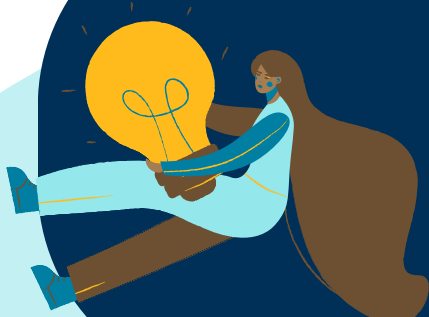

I-Search Chart

This chart helps you start with a question from class. Then you plan out how to find information about that question.

Sequence of Events

This guide helps you track the order of events. You can track historical events, a story, or a chemical reaction process.

Seed Discussion

If you are starting a new topic, this is a great tool. It helps you identify what is most important to your own thinking.
